

Never was there a better time for saving... The colored Industrial Training School on South Liberty will open in October.

M. A. Newland, Esq., of Marion, N. C., came to Spartanburg last week on a business trip.

There never has been a case of cholera in South Carolina, we believe. There is some comfort in that.

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Kirby died Saturday and was buried Sunday in the city cemetery.

The Sunday school rally at Central Methodist Church will come off Sunday week next and continue until the following Tuesday.

Gosnell and Reid sold the first sorghum syrup of the season in town last Tuesday. They retained it at six cents a gallon.

All interested in the Cannon's Camp Meeting should be in the city by Friday evening next and continue until the following Tuesday.

It will not be many days until the first bale of new cotton rolls into town. It will no doubt, come from the toiling neighborhood as usual.

Captain Charles A. Barry has been quite unwell for several days and is unable at present to ride over the county to attend to the duties of his office.

Do not wait until the prohibition law is enacted to stop drinking whiskey. Begin now so that you will be used to doing without it when the barroom closes.

Last Thursday was the beginning of the business year. Let every one turn over a new leaf and determine that he will do better than he has ever done before.

A meeting of much interest has been going on at Mountain View church during the last week. There were about two thousand or more accessions to the membership of the church.

The election table is presented for your consideration this week. Special tabulations of the vote are to be had from the Printing Office. Get one and keep it for future reference.

There was a protracted meeting at New Prospect which closed last Sunday. Much joy and gladness was manifested. The attendance was large and there were 15 to 20 accessions to the church.

Rev. G. W. Wait preached in the Central Methodist Church Sunday night. Bishop P. E. Stevens preached in the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. Usual services in the other churches.

We are getting so many parties in the country, that it is difficult to keep up with them. All are invited to make their announcements, state their grievances and publish their proclamations in the SPARTAN.

Mrs. E. F. Evans and S. H. Evans, have returned from Browning Park, Miss. Benja. at 100 Woodward, of Birmingham, Ala., stopped over with Mrs. Evans a few days and are at Captain Petty's, on Main street.

In addition to the excellent fodder saved, cut all the hay you can. It will all be needed in the country. When a farmer gets too much hay and fodder on hand in this country, it ought to be carried around in a show.

Who will be the People's Party leaders in Spartanburg? There are fully one thousand or more white men that logically belong to the new party. They may as well stand this year to come out and assert themselves.

The second primary election will be held Tuesday the 12th instant. The candidates in the second race are as follows: Master—H. B. Jolly, F. M. Sexton; Coroner—J. M. James, R. R. Pollard.

A new post office has been opened at A. H. Layton's house on the Spartanburg and Wood street. It is a very airy building, well lighted and well ventilated. This will prove a great convenience for a populous neighborhood.

Produce Markets. Corn and wheat in the city are as follows: In the market wheat is 75c, corn 40c, rice 12c, butter 25c, eggs 15c, chickens 15c to 20c, sorghum syrup 10c to 15c.

In a notice of the Johnson-Mite oil fight at Clifton last Monday night the 20th instant, we stated that Johnson escaped arrest. He has not left Clifton, and no attempt has been made to arrest him and no warrant has been sworn out against him so far as we know.

The Merchants Hotel was opened last Saturday. This is one of the finest houses in the State. Every room has been overhauled and all the appointments are of the very best. Captain Chase now has an opportunity for showing that he is the best keeper of the best hotel in the State.

Sorghum syrup put up air tight when hot in bags or kegs, will keep fresh and bright for a long time. If you wish nice syrup next August take that which is boiled down until it is about as thick as honey and seal up when hot and you will find it all right if you do not open it for twelve months.

Saleyard did not draw a large crowd. Little property was sold. The "bone yard" was well patronized. Some of the owners of the miscellaneous old farms brought out to swap or sell about to be dealt with according to law. It has shame to have such an exhibition of poor animals and cruelty on our streets.

Saturday about 2 p. m. an explosion took place at the Morgan Iron Works. The cause was pouring metal into the mould for a large cast. There was a little water in the mould; as soon as the hot metal touched it a very loud explosion took place and for a while it rained melted iron and sand. Joe Nickels, a colored man, was severely burned in the face and eyes. He was the only person injured.

The Cotton Market. Futures range from September 15c to March 7.5c. The supply on hand is about one million bales in excess of the season last year. The crop conditions especially in the west, look to a crop of eight million bales. The price on September 15c to 16c. The legitimate price in Spartanburg would be 6.25 for middling. Any price above that is due to the demand of the cotton mills.

James J. Corbett, the celebrated pugilist, stopped over in Spartanburg Monday morning and left for New Orleans Wednesday night. He is a fine specimen of manhood and his training has been thorough. He ran ten miles Monday, played pool an hour and then exercised in his special car for an hour and a half. He took his departure hitched on to the vestibule train and expects to reach New Orleans Wednesday morning.

Monks Hogan are spreading out in the harness business. Such have been the demands on them that they had to seek a larger building. They will move to the Archer building where they are going to keep a large assortment of harness goods for mules and horses. They invite every one in need of harness, leather and everything in their line to call on them at the Archer stand.

Bishop Duncan was in Spartanburg, the eastern part of Washington last Sunday. That place was "taken" until last year when they dropped the "Falls". It is about a dozen years old a settlement. It now has eight railroads and a great number of brick and stone buildings. The population is 25,000. In both the mining trade was over twenty million dollars. The falls furnish a 2,000 horse power. The finest theatre west of the Mississippi is there, mining and the lumber business have made the town.

Now that the elections are over and political war-fare has ceased, the SPARTAN proposes to carry on a campaign of education that will help the people. See the first page this week and there read about converse College, capital punishment, two Baptist associations and the cholera. When you read these articles you will know more than you do before. The SPARTAN will educate upward and not downward. It will educate you wiser and more thoughtful. A spirit of liberality and genuine helpfulness will be cultivated. Take it and you will be none the worse for it.

The excitement of the campaign has introduced a new strain into the community. It was reported that a big strike was imminent at the Spartan mills. A member elect to the Legislature said, a day or two after the election, that he feared the factory hands would soon strike. There is under excitement on this subject and the socialistic element in the county are pandering to this sentiment. It is probable that strikes in the cotton mills may be brought about. If a hand, or family, is not furnished with work the cry is raised that it is political persecution. Factory presidents and bosses are not allowed to manage their business as they see fit. Their conduct is watched and unfairly criticised. If the hands working in the mills listen to the idle, lazy, shiftless men that drift around the mills and live off the labor of their children, they may be induced to strike. If artful politicians can control offices, or gain power by a strike, they will encourage it. Let mill superintendents manage their own affairs in a business way and let the hands consult their own interest and not listen to idlers and disturbers of the peace, and there will be no strikes.

The Population of Spartanburg is about 25,000 and we would say at least one half are troubled with some affliction of the throat and lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than any other. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on our druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. Trial bottles free. Large bottles 50c and 75c. Sold by all drug stores.

Graduated School Notice. The Spartanburg City Public Schools will open Monday, September 12. All new pupils intending to enter the white schools will present themselves to the superintendent at the Magalloni-street building, for examination and grading as follows:

Children between six and ten years of age at 9 o'clock a. m., on Thursday, September 8. Those over ten years on Friday, September 9, at the same hour. Pupils for the colored schools will report to Rev. C. C. Scott, principal.

P. T. BRODIE, Superintendent.

To the Voters of Spartanburg County. In a few days you will be called upon to cast your votes for candidates (who failed to receive a majority of all the votes) in the 2d primary election.

The people of the entire Democratic party of Spartanburg county without any reference to factions will accept and support those who have already been declared the nominees of the party.

Among those who are now before the people is J. M. James, who has served the people faithfully as coronor for several years. No fault has been found with him. He is a one legged Confederate veteran dependent upon his own exertions for a living and worthy of the support of all.

In the first election, Mr. B. B. Chapman who is also numbered among our battle scared veterans, was heartily supported by both the Tillman and Conservative factions. Cannot the same rule be observed with regard to Mr. James?

The writer of this article is a personal friend of the competitor of Mr. James. He would be glad to support him in this race. He is a young progressive and well-to-do farmer and should be supported in his aspirations for office at the proper time and under the proper circumstances.

VOTER. A Sad Accident. ANDOVER, Spartanburg County, S. C. Aug. 28, 1892.—The saddest accident that has ever befallen this section of country happened yesterday about 5 o'clock P. M. on the place of M. C. Atkins, in which young Worth Campbell, son of Columbus W. Campbell, was instantly killed. Mr. Columbus Campbell is well known all over Greenville County and upper Spartanburg. He is a music school teacher and his son was accompanying and performing on the organ.

About four weeks ago he commenced a ten days school at Motlow's Creek church and before the school was out the people and his pupils in the community became very much attached to Mr. Campbell and his son. So much so, indeed, that when the time of parting came and Mr. Campbell began to extend the parting hand to his pupils while singing the song, "God be with you till we meet again," the scene that followed was truly heart rending. Last Sunday a protracted meeting began at Motlow's Creek and Mr. Campbell and his son came to assist in the meeting. Yesterday young Worth went home with Crawford Atkins for dinner and to await night service. In the afternoon the two young men went over to Mr. M. C. Atkins to spend part of the afternoon with some other young folks at that place. While there they went down on the branch where Mr. Atkins had started to build a dirt dam across the branch and it was about a half done. Mr. Atkins was building the dam with a push car. The track was laid as the embankment. The track was on the embankment and they were riding on the car and pushing it along with their feet. They went a little too far before aware of the danger and the young man went down under the car, the car falling on top of him and mashing his head to pieces. It was sad news to carry his parents, but they bear their grief like heroes. They felt that he was a Christian and has gone to rest, and thus they are comforted. The deceased was 19 years and 12 days old. He was an orphan and many people can testify and was generally beloved.

The whole country are mourning to-day over the sad fate, J. H. ATKINS. Let all true and loyal Democrats get together and vote the straight Democratic ticket in November. He who votes otherwise, should not be permitted to unite with Democrats in their primaries in 1894.

The Democratic Primary Election for Spartanburg county held Aug. 30th 1892, resulted in the election of the following officers, to wit:

Delegates to the State Convention: J. J. C. Ezell, A. C. Brown, J. P. Hertzog, W. E. Brown, J. M. O'Shields, C. C. Brown, N. L. Bennett, J. W. Hawkins, S. M. Caldwell, J. M. Phillips, J. B. Brown, L. F. Pearson, W. S. Morrison and E. C. Allen.

Sheriff: George B. Dean. Clerk of Court: T. R. Trimmer. County Commissioners: J. D. Leonard and J. L. Howell. School Commissioner: B. B. Chapman.

Treasurer: W. L. Epps. Auditor: L. P. Epton. The second primary will be held Tuesday, Sept. 13th, 1892, upon the following offices and candidates, to-wit:

One County Commissioner: R. M. Jolly and F. M. Sexton. Coroner: Candidates, B. R. Pollard and J. M. James.

Master: H. B. Carlisle and L. R. Hill. The election will be conducted by the managers and under the same rules as was the recent one. The managers are not required to sign new oaths. The managers are required to sign their names to their report of the vote cast for the various candidates.

E. C. ALLEN, Chm. Dem. Co. Ex. Com. Sept. 3rd 1892.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Mr. Editor—I have heard several rejected candidates assign various and divers reasons why they did not "get there" but I must frankly confess that the reason of my defeat is that I failed to get enough votes. My votes were good enough as far as they went, but they did not go far enough. Sixteen hundred and thirty one votes, while it is a goodly number, and I am very proud of them, yet they are not sufficient to elect a man in this county.

"It is better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." I do not regret my candidacy, even though I failed; I made a most creditable large vote and I am proud of it. I made numerous acquaintances and friends, and had a good time generally. I had three honorable opponents and we enjoy the respect and esteem of each other. I was beaten, but I can't help thinking that they could not do it again.

Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson were both beaten the first time they ran for president, but no one was able to do so again. I may be a candidate for some office again some day, and I may not, but "all the same" I owe an everlasting debt of gratitude to those friends who supported me, and as to those who voted against me I entertain no feeling but that of the most cordial respect. I have charity for all, justice for none.

For some time past I have been known as candidate Gentry, but for some time in the future I will be Lawyer Gentry, and I take this method of saying to all those who venture within my domain and entrust their legal matters to me, that, in the language of the candidate on the hustings "I will serve you to the best of my ability." Very truly, J. J. GENTRY.

SECTION 2.—It shall be the duty of the Flagman to give due and timely notice of the approach of any Engine or Train, and prevent if possible the crossing of the Railroad track by vehicles or pedestrians when an Engine or Train may be approaching with the purpose of crossing any of the said streets.

SECTION 3.—Any person or persons crossing or attempting to cross the track at any of said mentioned crossings, if warned by the flagman, shall do so at their own peril.

SECTION 4.—That it shall be unlawful for any Company or Corporation to allow any of their Engines or train of cars, to cross or pass over any of the street crossings of the City at any greater rate of speed than three miles per hour, and the Engines shall commence ringing their bell when approaching any of said crossings, at least by the time the engine or cars gets within one hundred yards of any of said crossings.

Done and ratified under the Corporate Seal of the City of Spartanburg this 11th day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two.

JOSEPH WALKER, Mayor. JOS. M. ELFORD, Chairman of City Council.

ORDINANCE AS TO STREET RAILROADS. Whereas, in the Judgment of the Mayor and City Council, it would be dangerous to life and property to allow a street railroad company, tramway or dummy line company, whether run by horse steam or any other power, to use the streets of the city as a right of way, which are less than thirty feet wide in the wagon or drive way.

Now, therefore, be it ordained, That from and after the passage of the ordinance hereinafter set forth, no street railway company or dummy line company, whether operated by horse, steam or any other power, shall be permitted to lay its track along any of the streets of the city, which shall not have a uniform width of at least thirty-five feet in the wagon or drive way exclusive of side-walks—that is to say, which shall be at least thirty-five feet wide between the side-walk curbs.

And be it further ordained, that no such railroad company, tramway company, or dummy line company shall be permitted to lay its track along or over any bridge or viaduct which shall not be at least thirty-five feet wide in the wagon or drive way, exclusive of side-walks, or over any stone structure at least thirty-five feet in width in the wagon or drive-way; and said railroad company or dummy line company shall be held to their own expense, keep a watchman at such bridge or crossing while cars are being operated on the line. Provided this ordinance shall not apply to streets already laid with tracks.

Done and ratified in Council assembled this 11th day of August, A. D. 1892. JOSEPH WALKER, Mayor. JOS. M. ELFORD, Clerk City Council. Aug. 22—21.
